CHARACTER OF CICERO.

MARCUS TULLIUS CICERO (born 3rd January, B.C. 106), son of a landholder at Arpinum. The orator, Crassus, took an early interest in him. He came to Rome B.C. 91, and was first placed under the tuition of the Greek poet, Archias, a teacher at Rome, with whom he read the poets and orators of Greece, composed in the Greek language, and also wrote Latin verse. He learned national law and ritual under the two Scævolas, the augur and the pontifex. Roman institutions required him to serve in the field, and he took part in the campaign of Sulla against the Italian Confederates, B.C. 87. Returning to Rome he studied Latin under Lucius Ælius Stilo; he also attended the lectures of Philo, the chief of the Academics ; of Diodotus, the Stoic; of Molo, a philosopher of Rhodes; of Phaedrus and Zeno, the Epicureans ; of Antiochus, of Ascalon, and of Demetrius, the Syrian. He attended the speeches of the different orators and pleaders in the Forum and Courts : studied the gesture of the best actors, Æsop and Roscius; and spent a portion of each day in the practice of reading, writing, and declamation. At the age of twenty-six, he pleaded a civil cause in the speech pro Quinctio (B.C. 81), and again in a criminal action against Roscius Amerinus, in the following year. After these efforts, which brought him some distinction, he suddenly withdrew to Athens, on the plea of weak health, but probably to avoid the displeasure of the dictator Sulla. Here he studied under Molo and others. He travelled also through the Roman province of Asia. At the age of thirty-one he was elected quæstor of Lilybaeum, in Sicily ; at thirty-seven, ædile ; at forty, prætor ; and at forty-three, consul. During a visit to Syracuse, he discovered the tomb of Archimedes. On his return to Rome, the censors placed his name on the roll of Senators. In suits, Cicero, by acting as defendant, won the public He defended the Sicilians, on the impeachsympathy. ment of Verres, B.C. 70; Verres withdrew from the city, and Cicero was thus raised to the highest pinnacle of While prætor, he made his first appearance as a fame political speaker from the rostra in the delivery of the oration for the Manilian law (B.C. 66), which secured for Pompey the conduct of the war against Mithridates. During his consulship (B.C. 63), occurred the third conspiracy of Catilina, the successful suppression of which won for him the proud title of Pater Patriæ. Five of the nine prisoners of this conspiracy were put to death by Cicero, owing to which illegal step, Clodius procured his banishment, B.C. 58. After sixteen months he was recalled. He was appointed a member of the College of Augurs, B.C. 53, and pro-consul of Cilicia, B.C. 51. On the formation of the second Triumvirate, Octavian, to gratify Antony, allowed Cicero's name to be placed on the list of the proscribed. He was assassinated on the seventh of December, B.C. 43, when he wanted twenty-seven days to complete his sixty-fourth year.

CHARACTER AND WRITINGS OF CICERO.

He wrote fifty-six political speeches. Besides these, he produced several speeches on the subject of oratory, which, as part of the Roman training for public life, may be considered political. He also wrote several philosophical works. While a third division embraces his letters in two series, the one those to his friend Atticus, the other to his correspondents generally. Mommsen thus describes Cicero : "He was useful on account of his lawyer's talent of finding reasons, or at any rate words, for everything. He was a many-sided man. A statesman without insight, opinion or purpose; he figured successively as democrat; as aristocrat, and as a tool of the monarchs, and was never more than a short-sighted egotist. Where he exhibited the appearance of action, the questions to which his action applied had, as a rule, just reached their solution ; thus he came forward in the trial of Verres against the Senatorial Judicia, when they were already set aside ; thus he was silent at the discussion on the Gabinian, and acted as a champion of the 'Manilian law'; thus he thundered against Catilina when his departure was already settled, and so forth. His importance rests on his mastery of style, and it is only as a stylist that he shews confidence in himself. He essayed the most varied tasks, sang the great deeds of Marius and his own petty achievements in endless hexameters, beat Demosthenes off the field with his speeches, and Plato with his philosophic dialogues; and time alone was wanting for. him to vanquish also Thucydides. There was no department in which he could not, with the help of a few books, have rapidly got up by a translation or compilation a readable essay. People are in the habit of calling it interesting and clever; and it is so, as long as it reflects the urban or villa life of the world of quality; but where the writer is thrown on his own resources, as in exile, in Cilicia, and after the battle of Pharsalus, it is stale and empty as was ever the soul of a feuilletonist banished from his familiar circles. Cicero had no conviction and no passion; he was nothing but an advocate and not a good one."

All men and all parties agreed that he could not be relied upon to lead, to co-operate, or to follow. In all the great enterprises of his party, he was left behind, except that which the nobles undertook against Catilina, in which they rather thrust him before them than engaged with him on terms of equal support, Much, indeed, of the patriotism, the honesty, the moral courage he exhibited was really no other than the refined ambition of attaining the respect of his contemporaries, and bequeathing a name to posterity. Cicero had no nice sense of honour, and was controlled by no delicacy of sentiment, where public opinion was silent, or a transaction strictly private. To the pursuit of fame he sacrificed many interests and friendships. He sought his associates amongst the young, from whose rivalry he had nothing to fear. —Merivale.

Livy says, "he bore none of his calamities as a man should, except his death."

With all this he was the greatest of Roman orators, an authority on grammar, an advocate of a pure morality, which he borrowed from Plato and the Academic School. He lived and died in faith. He has made converts to the belief in virtue, and had disciples in the wisdom of love.

M. TULLII CICERONIS

PRO

A. LICINIO ARCHIA POETA ORATIO.

NOTITIA LITERARIA.

A. Licinius Archias quum Catulo et Mario coss. (A.U. 652.) Romam veniret, Cicero puer adhuc quadrimus eo tempore erat; postea poetæ operam dedit. Orationem habuit A. U. 693. M. Pupio Pisone et M. Valerio Messalla coss.

ARG. A. Licinius Archias se studiis poeticis dedidit, et adprime, ut videbatur, excelluit in hoc genere litterarum. Amicitia igitur etiam viris illustribus familiariter copulatus est, ut ipse M. Tullius in orationis hujus narratione confirmat. Interim satis longo intervallo guum esset cum L. Lucullo in Siciliam profectus, et quum ex ca provincia cum eodem L. Lucullo regrederetur, Heracleam venit, que tunc erat civitas feederata, et ascriptus est in ordinem Heracleensium civis. Tunc Silvanus et Carbo coss. legem tulerunt, ut omnes, qui essent ex fœderatis populis, civitatem Romanam consequerentur: si modo illo tempore, quo lex lata esset, domicilium in Italia haberent, et intra diem sexagesimum professi apud prætorem fuissent. Quæ quum Licinio Archiæ ad obtinendum jus civitatis Romanae argumenta deessent, quoniam neque tabulis Heracleensium probare poterat ascriptum se in ordinem civium; quippe tabularium civitatis illius exarserat beilo sociali, nec bona sua in censum detulerat ; reus factus est lege Papia, que lata fuerat ad eos coercendos, qui temere et illicite civitatem Romanam usurpassent. Fit ergo quasi conjecturalis, an ascriptus sit in ordinem Heracleensium, et an fecerit omnia, que is facere debuerit, qui esset e numero fœderatorum. Et deficitur quidem multis probationibus; testimonio tamen Heracleensium et vel maxime, quibus tota occupatur oratio, poeticæ facultatus et doctrime jucundissimæ gratia nititur. Est etiam, omissa conjectura, disceptatio per ipsam qualitatem personæ, ut civis Romanus debeat adoptari, etiamsi in præteritum non sit associatus.

I. SI quid est in me ingenii, judices, quod sentio 1 quam sit exiguum, aut si qua exercitatio dicendi, in qua me non infitior mediocriter esse versatum, aut si hujusce rei ratio aliqua, ab optimarum artium studiis ac disciplina profecta, a qua ego nullum confiteor ætatis meæ tempus abhörruisse, earum rerum omnium vel in primis hic A. Licinius fructum a me repetere prope suo jure debet. Nam quoad longissime potest mens mea respicere spatium præteriti temporis et pueritiæ memoriam recordari ultimam, inde usque repetens hunc video mihi principem et ad suscipiendam et ad ingrediendam rationem horum studiorum exstitisse. Quod si hæc vox, hujus hortatu præceptisque conformata, nonnullis aliquando saluti fuit, a quo id accepimus, quo ceteris opitulari et alios servare possemus, huic profecto 2 ipsi, quantum est situm in nobis, et opem et salutem ferre debemus. Ac ne quis a nobis hoc ita dici forte miretur, quod alia quædam in hoc facultas sit ingenii. neque hæc dicendi ratio aut disciplina, ne nos quidem huic uni studio penitus umquam dediti fuimus. Etenim omnes artes, quæ ad humanitatem pertinent, habent quoddam commune vinculum, et quasi cognatione qua-dam inter se continentur. II. Sed ne cui vestrum mi3 rum esse videatur, me in quæstione legitima et in judicio publico, quum res agatur apud prætorem populi Ro-mani, lectissimum virum, et apud severissimos judices, tanto conventu hominum ac frequentia, hoc uti genere dicendi, quod non modo a consuetudine judiciorum, verum etiam a forensi sermone abhorreat, quæso a vobis, ut in hac causa mihi detis hanc veniam, accommodatam huic reo, vobis, quemadmodum spero, non molestam, ut me, pro summo poeta atque eruditissimo homine dicentem, hoc concursu hominum litteratissimorum, hac vestra humanitate, hoc denique prætore exercente judicium, patiamini de studiis humanitatis ac litterarum paullo loqui liberius, et in ejusmodi persona, quæ, propter otium ac studium, minime in judiciis periculisque tractata est, uti prope novo quodam et 4 inusitato genere dicendi. Quod si mihi a vobis tribui concedique sentiam, perficiam profecto, ut hunc A. Licinium non modo non segregandum, quum sit civis, a numero civium, verum etiam, si non esset, putetis asciscendum fuisse.

III. Nam ut primum ex pueris excessit Archias, atque ab iis artibus, quibus ætas puerilis ad humanitatem informari solet, se ad scribendi studium contulit : primum Antiochiæ (nam ibi natus est, loco nobili, celebri quondam urbe et copiosa atque eruditissimis hominibus liberalissimisque studiis affluenti,) celeriter ei antecellere omnibus ingenii gloria contigit. Post in ceteris Asiæ partibus cunctaque Græcia sic ejus adventus celebrabantur, ut famam ingenii exspectatio hominis, exspectationem ipsius adventus admiratioque superaret. Erat Italia tunc plena Græcirum artium ac disciplinarum, studiaque hæc et in Latio vehementius tum colebantur, quam nunc iisdem in oppidis, et hic Romæ, propter tranquillitatem reipublicæ, non negligebantur. Itaque hunc et Tarentini et Rhegini et Neapolitani civitate ceterisque præmiis donarunt : et omnes, qui aliquid de ingeniis poterant judicare, cognitione atque hospitio dignum existimarunt. Hac tanta celebritate famæ quum esset jam absentibus notus, Romam venit, Mario consule et Catulo. Nactus est primum consules eos, quorum alter res ad scribendum maximas, alter quum res gestas, tum etiam studium atque aures adhibere posset. Statim Luculli, quum prætextatus etiam tum Archias esset, eum domum suam receperunt. Jam hoc non solum ingenii ac litterarum, verum etiam naturæ atque virtutis, ut domus, quæ hujus adolescentiæ prima fuerit, eadem esset familiarissima senectuti. Erat 6 temporibus illis jucundus Q. Metello illi Numidico et ejus Pio filio ; audiebatur a M. Æmilio ; vivebat cum Q. Catulo, et patre et filio ; a L. Crasso colebatur : Lucullos vero et Drusum et Octavios et Cantonem et totam Hortensiorum domum devinctam consuetudine quum teneret, afficiebatur summo honore, quod eum non solum colebant, qui aliquid percipere atque audire studebant, verum etiam, si qui forte simulabant. 1V. Interim satis longo intervallo, quum esset cum L. Lucullo in Siciliam profectus, et quum ex ea provincia cum eodem Lucullo decederet, venit Heracleam. Quæ quum esset civitas æquissimo jure ac fædere, ascribi se in eam civitatem voluit : idque, quum ipse per se dignus putaretur, tum auctoritate et gratia Luculli ab 7 Heracleensibus impetravit. Data est civitas Silvani lege et Carbonis, SIQUI FOEDERATIS CIVITATIBUS ASCRIPTI FUISSENT : SI TUM, QUUM LEX FEREBATUR, IN ITALIA DOMICILIUM HABUISSENT : et, SI SEXAGINTA DIEBUS APUD PRÆTOREM ESSENT PROFESSI. Quum hic domicilium Romæ multos jam annos haberet, professus est apud prætorem, Q. Metellum, familiarissimum suum. Si 8 nihil aliud, nisi de civitate ac lege, dicimus, nihil dico amplius : causa dicta est. Quid enim horum infirmari,

Grati, potest ? Heracleæne esse tum ascriptum nega-bis ? Adest vir summa auctoritate et religione et fide, L. Lucullus, qui se non opinari, sed scire ; non audivisse, sed vidisse ; non interfuisse, sed egisse dicit. Adsunt Heracleenses legati, nobilissimi homines : hujus judicii causa cum mandatis et cum publico testimonio venerunt; qui hunc ascriptum Heracleensem dicunt. Hic tu tabulas desideras Heracleensium publicas, quas Italico bello, incenso tabulario, interisse scimus Est ridiculum ad ea, quæ habemus, nihil omnes. quærere, quæ habere non possumus; et de dicere ; hominum memoria tacere, litterarum memoriam flagitare ; et, quum habeas amplissimi viri religionem, integerrimi municipii jusjurandum fidemque, ea, quæ depravari nullo modo possunt, repudiare ; tabulas, quas 9 idem dicis solere corrumpi, desiderare. At domicilium in Italia non habuit is, qui tot annis ante civitatem datam sedem omnium rerum ac fortunarum suarum Romæ collocavit? An non est professus? Immo vero iis tabulis professus, quæ solæ ex illa professione collegioque prætorem obtinent publicarum tabularum auctoritatem. V. Nam quum Appii tabulæ negligentius asservatæ dicerentur, Gabinii, quamdiu incolumis fuit, levitas, post damnationem calamitas, omnem tabularum fidem resignasset, Metellus, homo sanctissimus modestissimusque omnium, tanta diligentia fuit, ut ad L. Lentulum prætorem et al judices venerit et unius nominis litura se commotum esse dixerit. His igitur tabulis 10 nullam lituram in nomine A. Licinii videtis. Quæ quum ita sint, quid est, quod de ejus civitate dubitetis. præsertim quum aliis quoque in civitatibus fuerit ascriptus? Etenim quum mediocribus multis et aut nulla. aut humili aliqua arte præditis gratuito civitatem in Græcia homines impertiebantur, Rheginos credo aut Locrenses aut Neapolitanos aut Tarentinos, quod scenicis artificibus largiri solebant, id huic, summa ingenii prædito gloria, noluisse! Quid ? quum ceteri, non modo post civitatem datam, sed etiam post legem Papiam, aliquo modo in eorum municipiorum tabulas irrepserint, hic, qui ne utitur quidem illis, in quibus est llascriptus, quod semper se Heracleensem esse voluit, rejicietur? Census nostros requiris silicet. Est enim obscurum, proximis censoribus hunc cum clarissimo imperatore, L. Lucullo, apud exercitum fuisse : superioribus, cum eodem quæstore fuisse in Asia : primis, Julio et Crasso, nullam populi partem esse censam. Sed, quoniam census non jus civitatis confirmat, ac tantummodo indicat, eum, qui sit census, ita se jam tum gessisse pro cive, iis temporibus, quæ tu criminaris ne ipsius quidem judicio eum in civium Romanorum jure esse versatum, et testamentum sæpe fecit nostris legibus, et adiit hereditates civium Romanorum, et in beneficiis ad ærarium delatus est a L. Lucullo prætore et consule. VI. Quære argumenta, si quæ potes ; numquam enim hic neque suo, neque amicorum judicio revincetur.

Quæres a nobis, Grati, cur tanto opere hoc homine 12delectemur. Quia suppeditat nobis, ubi et animus ex hoc forensi strepitu reficiatur et aures convicio defessæ conquiescant. An tu existimas, aut suppetere nobis posse, quod quotidie dicamus, in tanta varietate rerum, nisi animos nostros doctrina excolamus, aut ferre animos tantam posse contentionem, nisi eos doctrina eadem relaxemus ? Ego vero fateor, me his studiis esse deditum ; ceteros pudeat, si qui ita se litteris abdiderunt, ut nihil possint ex his neque ad communem afferre fructúm, neque in aspectum lucemque proferre. Me autem quid pudeat, qui tot annos ita vivo, judices, ut ab nullius umquam me tempore aut commodo aut otium meum abstraxerit aut voluptas avocarit aut denique somnus retardarit ? Quare quis tandem me re-13 prehendat, aut quis mihi jure succenseat, si, quantum ceteris ad suas res obeundas, quantum ad festos dies ludorum celebrandos, quantum ad alias voluptates, et ad ipsam requiem animi et corporis conceditur temporum; quantum alii tribuunt tempestivis conviviis, quantum denique alveolo, quantum pilæ, tantum mihi egomet ad hæc studia recolenda sumpsero ? Atque hoc adeo mihi concedendum est magis, quod ex his studiis hæc quoque crescit oratio et facultas ; quæ quantacumque in me est, numquam amicorum periculis defuit. Quæ si cui levior videtur, illa quidem certe, quæ summa sunt, ex quo fonte hauriam, sentio. Nam nisi multorum præceptis multisque litteris mihi ab adolescentia suasissem, nihil esse in vita magno opere expetendum, nisi laudem atque honestatem ; in ea autem persequenda omnes cruciatus corporis, omnia pericula mortis atque exsilii parvi esse ducenda : numquam me pro salute vestra in tot ac tantas dimicationes atque in hos profligatorum hominum quotidianos impetus objecis-Sed pleni sunt omnes libri, plenæ sapientium sem: voces, plena exemplorum vetustas; quæ jacerent in tenebris omnia, nisi litterarum lumen accederet. Quam multas nobis imagines non solum ad intuendum, verum etiam ad imitandum, fortissimorum virorum expressas, scriptores et Græci et Latini reliquerunt ! Quas ego mihi semper in administranda republica proponens, animum et mentem meam ipsa cogitatione hominum excellentium conformabam.

15 VII. Quæret quispiam : quid ? illi ipsi summi viri, quorum virtutes litteris proditæ sunt, istane doctrina, quam tu effers laudibus, eruditi fuerunt ? Difficile est hoc de omnibus confirmare ; sed tamen est certum, quid respondeam. Ego multos homines excellenti animo ac virtute fuisse, et sine doctrina naturæ ipsius habitu prope divino per seipsos et moderatos et graves exstitisse fateor. Etiam illud adjungo, sæpius ad laudem atque virtutem naturam sine doctrina, quam sine natura valuisse doctrinam. Atque idem ego contendo, quum ad naturam eximiam atque illustrem accesserit ratio quædam conformatioque doctrinæ, tum illud 16 nescio quid præclarum ac singulare solere existere. Ex hoc esse hunc numero, quem patres nostri viderunt, divinum hominem, Africanum; ex hoc C. Lælium, L. Furium, moderatissimos homines et continentissimos; ex hoc fortissimum virum et illis temporibus doctissimum, M. Catonem illum senem : qui profecto, si nihil ad percipiendam colendamque virtutem litteris adjuvarentur, numquam se ad earum studium contulissent. Quod si non hic tantus fructus ostenderetur, et si ex his studiis delectatio sola peteretur, tamen, ut opinor, hanc animi adversionem humanissimam ac liberalissimam judicaretis. Nam ceteræ neque temporum sunt, neque ætatum omnium neque locorum ; hæc studia adolescentiam agunt, senectutem oblectant, secundas res ornant, adversis perfugium ac solatium præbent; delectant domi, non impediunt foris, pernoctant nobiscum, peregrinantur, rusticantur.

17 VIII. Quod si ipsi hæc neque attingere neque sensu nostro gustare possemus, tamen ea mirari deberemus, etiam quum in aliis videremus. Quis nostrum tam animo agresti ac duro fuit, ut Roscii morte nuper non commoveretur ? qui quum esset senex mortuus, tamen propter excellentem artem ac venustatem videbatur omnino mori non debuisse. Ergo ille corporis motu tantum amorem sibi conciliarat a nobis omnibus, nos animorum incredibiles motus celeritatemque ingeniorum ne-18 gligemus ? Quoties ego hunc Archiam vidi, judices, (utar enim vestra benignitate, quoniam me in hoc novo genere dicendi tam diligenter attenditis,) quoties ego hunc vidi, quum litteram scripsisset nullam, magnnm numerum optimorum versuum de his ipsis rebus, quæ tum agerentur, dicere ex tempore ! quoties revocatum eamdem rem dicere, commutatis verbis atque sententiis ! Quæ vero accurate cogitateque scripsisset, ea sic vidi probari, ut ad veterum scriptorum laudem pervenirent. Hune ego non diligam ? non admirer ? non omni ratione defendendum putem ? Atqui sic a summis hominibus eruditissimisque accepimus, ceterarum rerum studia et doctrina et præceptis et arte constare, poetam natura ipsa valere et mentis viribus excitari et quasi divino quodam spiritu inflari. Quare suo jure noster ille En-nius sanctos appellat poetas, quod quasi deorum aliquo 19 dono atque munere commendati nobis esse videantur. Sit igitur, judices, sanctum apud vos, humanissimos homines, hoc poetæ nomen, quod nulla umquam barbaria violavit. Saxa et solitudines voci respondent, bestiæ sæpe immanes cantu flectuntur atque consistunt, nos, instituti rebus optimis, non poetarum voce moveamur ? Homerum Colophonii civem esse dicunt suum, Chii suum vindicant, Salaminii repetunt, Smyrnæi vero suum esse confirmant : itaque etiam delubrum ejus in oppido dedicaverunt : permulti alii præterea pugnant inter se atque contendunt. IX. Ergo illi alienum, quia poeta fuit, post mortem etiam expetunt, nos hunc vivum, qui et voluntate et legibus noster est, repudiamus ? præsertim quum omne olim studium atque omne ingenium contulerit Archias ad populi Romani gloriam laudemque celebrandam ? Nam et Cimbricas res adolescens attigit, et ipsi illi C. Mario, qui durior ad hæc studia vi-20 debatur, jucundus fuit. Neque enim quisquam est tam aversus a Musis, qui non mandari versibus æternum suorum laborum facile præconium patiatur. The-mistoclem illum, summum Athenis virum, dixisse aiunt, quum ex eo quæreretur, quod acroama aut cujus vocem libentissime audiret :- ejus, a quo sua virtus optime pra-dicaretur. Itaque ille Marius item eximie L. Plotium 21 dilexit, cujus ingenio putabat ea, quæ gesserat, posse celebrari. Mithridaticum vero bellum, magnum atque difficile et in multa varietate terra marique versatum, totum ab hoc expressum est : qui libri non modo L. Lucullum, fortissimum et clarissimum virum, verum etiam populi Romani nomen illustrant. Populus enim Romanus aperuit, Lucullo imperante, Pontum, et regiis quondam opibus et ipsa natura regionis vallatum : populi Romani exercitus, eodem duce, non maxima manu innumerabiles Armeniorum copias fudit : populi Romani laus est, urbem amicissimam Cyzicenorum ejusdem consilio ex omni impetu regio ac totius belli ore ac faucibus ereptam esse atque servatam : nostra semper feretur et prædicabitur, L. Lucullo dimi-cante, cum interfectis ducibus depressa hostium classis, et incredibilis apud Tenedum pugna illa navalis : nostra sunt tropæa, nostra monumenta, nostri triumphi. Quare, quorum ingeniis hæc feruntur, ab iis populi Romani fama celebratur. Carus 22 fuit Africano superiori noster Ennius : itaque etiam in sepulcro Scipionum putatur is esse constitutus e marmore. At iis laudibus certe non solum ipsi, qui laudantur, sed etiam populi Romani nomen ornatur. In cælum hujus proavus Cato tollitur : magnus honos populi Romani rebus adjungitur. Omnes denique illi Maximi, Marcelli, Fulvii non sine communi omnium nostrum laude decorantur. X. Ergo illum, qui hæc fecerat, Rudinum hominem, majores nostri in civitatem receperunt, nos hunc Heracleensem, multis civitatibus expetitum, in hac autem legibus constitutum, de nostra civitate ejiciemus ?

23 Nam si quis minorem gloriæ fructum putat ex Græcis versibus percipi, quam ex Latinis, vehementer errat, propterea quod Græca leguntur in omnibus fere gentibus, Latina suis finibus, exiguis sane, continentur. Quare si res eæ, quas gessimus, orbis terræ regionibus definiuntur, cupere debemus, quo manuum nostrarum tela pervenerint, eodem gloriam famamque penetrare, quod quum ipsis populis, de quorum rebus scribitur, hæc ampla sunt, tum iis certe, qui de vita gloriæ causa dimicant, hoc maximum et periculorum incitamentum 24 est et laborum. Quam multos scriptores rerum suarum magnus ille Alexander secum habuisse dicitur ! Atque is tamen, quum in Sigeo ad Achillis tumulum astitisset. O fortunate, inquit, adolescens, qui tuæ virtutis Homerum præconem inveneris ! Et vere. Nam, nisi Ilias illa exstitisset, idem tumulus, qui corpus ejus contexerat, nomen etiam obruisset. Quid ? noster hic Magnus, qui cum virtute fortunam adæquavit, nonne Theophanem Mitylenæum, scriptorem rerum suarum, in concione militum civitate donavit ? et nostri illi fortes viri, sed rustici ac milites, dulcedine quadam gloriæ commoti, quasi participes ejusdem laudis, magno illud clamore approbaverunt ? Itaque, credo, si civis Ro-25 manus Archias legibus non esset, ut ab aliquo imperatore civitate donaretur, perficere non potuit. Sulla, quum Hispanos et Gallos donaret, credo, hunc petentem repudiasset; quem nos in concione vidimus, quum ei libellum malus poeta de populo subjecisset, quod epigramma in eum fecisset tantummodo alternis versibus longiusculis, statim ex iis rebus, quas tunc vendebat, jussit ei præmium tribui sub ea conditione, ne quid post ea scriberet. Qui sedulitatem mali poetæ duxerit aliquo tamen præmio dignam, hujus ingenium et virtutem in 26 scribendo et copiam non expetisset ? Quid ? a Q. Metello Pio, familiarissimo suo, qui civitate multos donavit, neque per se, neque per Lucullos impetravisset ? qui præsertim usque eo de suis rebus scribi cuperet, ut etiam Cordubæ natis poetis, pingue quiddam sonantibus atque peregrinum, tamen aures suas dederet. XI. Neque enim est hoc dissimulandum, quod obscurari non potest, sed præ nobis ferendum, trahimur omnes laudis studio, et optimus quisque maxime gloria ducitur. Ipsi illi philosophi etiam illis libellis, quos de contemnenda gloria scribunt, nomen suum inscribunt : in eo ipso, in quo prædicationem nobilitatemque despiciunt, prædicari de se ac nominari volunt. Decimus quidem Brutus, 27 summus ille vir et imperator, Accii, amicissimi sui, carminibus templorum ac monumentorum aditus exornavit suorum. Jam vero ille, qui cum Ætolis, Ennio comite, bellavit, Fulvius, non dubitavit Martis manubias Musis consecrare. Quare, in qua urbe imperatores prope armati poetarum nomen et Musarum delubra coluerunt, in ea non debent togati judices a Musarum honore et a poetarum salute abhorrere.

28 Atque, ut id libentius faciatis, jam me vobis, judices, indicabo, et de meo quodam amore gloriæ, nimis acri fortasse, verumtamen honesto, vobis confitebor. Nam, quas res nos in consulatu nostro vobiscum simul pro salute hujus-urbis atque imperii et pro vita civium proque universa republica gessimus, attigit hic versibus atque inchoavit : quibus auditis, quod mihi magna res et jucunda visa est, hune ad perficiendum hortatus Nullam enim virtus aliam mercedem laborum sum. periculorumque desiderat, præter hanc laudis et gloriæ; qua quidem detracta, judices, quid est, quod in hoc tam exiguo vitæ curriculo et tam brevi tantis nos in labori-29 bus exerceamus ? Certe, si nihil animus præsentiret in posterum, et si, quibus regionibus vitæ spatium circumscriptum est, eisdem omnes cogitationes terminaret suas, nec tantis se laboribus frangeret, neque tot curis vigiliisque angeretur, neque toties de vita ipsa dimicaret. Nunc insidet quædam in optimo quoque virtus, quæ noctes et dies animum gloriæ stimulis concitat, atque admonet, non cum vitæ tempore esse dimittendam commemorationem nominis nostri, sed cum omni pos-30 teritate adæquandum. XII. An vero tam parvi animi videamur esse omnes, qui in republica atque in his vitæ periculis laboribusque versamur, ut, quum usque ad extremum spatium nullum tranquillum atque otiosum spiritum duxerimus, nobiscum simul moritura omnia arbitremur? An, quum statuas et imagines, non animorum simulacra, sed corporum, studiose multi summi homines reliquerint, consiliorum relinquere ac virtutum nostrarum effigiem non multo malle debemus, summis ingeniis expressam et politam ? Ego vero omnia, quæ gerebam, jam tum in gerendo spargere me ac disseminare arbitrabar in orbis terræ memoriam sempiternam. Hæc vero sive a meo sensu post mortem abfutura est, sive, ut sapientissimi homines putaverunt, ad aliquam mei partem pertinebit, nunc quidem certe cogitatione quadam speque delector.

Quare conservate, judices, hominem pudore eo, quem 31 amicorum videtis comprobari quum dignitate, tum etiam vetustate; ingenio autem tanto, quantum id convenit existimari, quod summorum hominum ingeniis expetitum esse videatis ; causa vero ejusmodi, quæ beneficio legis, auctoritate municipii, testimonio Luculli, tabulis Metelli comprobetur. Quæ quum ita sint, petimus a vobis, judices, si quo non modo humana, verum etiam divina in tantis negotiis commendatio debet esse, ut eum, qui vos, qui vestros imperatores, qui populi Romani res gestas semper ornavit ; qui etiam his recentibus nostris vestrisque domesticis periculis æternum se testimonium laudum daturum esse profitetur; quique est eo numero, qui semper apud omnes sancti sunt habiti atque dicti, sic in vestram accipiatis fidem, ut humanitate vestra levatus potius, quam acerbitate violatus esse videatur. Quæ de causa pro mea consuetudine breviter simpliciterque dixi, judices, ea confido probata esse omnibus: quæ non fori neque judiciali consuetudine et de hominis ingenio et communiter de ipsius studio locutus sum ea, judices, a vobis spero esse in bonam partem accepta, ab eo, qui judicium exercet, certo scio.

INTRODUCTION.

THE ORATION FOR THE POET ARCHIAS.

AULUS LICINIUS ARCHIAS, a Greek poet, a native of Antioch, came to Rome in the consulate of Marius and Catulus. B.C. 102. He soon became intimate with the best families at Rome, especially the Luculli, whose Gentile name, Licinius, he adopted. He accompanied Lucullus to Sicily, and on returning with him, he was enrolled as a citizen of Heraclea, in Lucania, which at that time was a fæderata civitas (i.e. connected with Rome by treaty). In B.C. 92 an Act was passed conferring Roman franchise on all who were citizens of federate cities, provided that they possessed a home in Italy, and made a public statement before the prætor, within sixty days after the passing of the Act (cf. iv., § 7). Proofs were wanting to show that Archias had obtained the right of a Roman citizen, and it could not be proved by the public records of Heraclea that Archias had received such a right, inasmuch as the registry office of that city had been burned down in the Social war, and, moreover, his property had not been rated. Accordingly, Gratius contested his title to the rights and privileges of a Roman citizen, in accordance with the Lex Papia, a law which had been proposed in B.C. 65, for removing all aliens from the city. Cicero can furnish no direct proof, and consequently he launches out into the praises of poetry. This oration was delivered, B.C. 62, before the prator urbanus, Quintus Cicero.

PROFECTA (proficiscor), proceeding, resulting from.

ABHORUISSE, kept aloof.

VEL IN PRIMIS, even amongst the first. M. 436, obs.

HIC A. LICINIUS, hic-ovro5, this man here; Cicero purposely employs his Roman name to strengthen his case.

FRUCTUM, the fruit; inasmuch as Archias had, as Cicero's tutor, sown the seed; hence he says, prope suo jure.

QUOAD LONGISSIME—as far as—ever, longissime serves as a modifier. M. 310, obs. 2; S. 354.

PUERITIA, from seven to fourteen; infantia, one to seven; adolescentia, fourteen to twenty-eight; and juventus, from twenty-eight to fifty. (Isidorus Orig. XI. 2.)

INDE - - - REPETENS, recalling (to mind) right on from thence; repetens is here used absolutely.

AD SUSCIPIENDAM - - - INGREDIENDAM, taking up - - - advancing in.

QUOD SI - - - FUIT. M. 449; S. 491.

CONFORMATA, moulded.

NONNULLIS - - - SALUTI-for a safety-to several. M. 249 : S. 290; H. 290.

CETERIS - $\delta i \alpha \lambda \lambda o i$, all others, alios, some ; he could speak on behalf of all, but could not save all.

§ 2. QUOD - - - SIT-subjunctive, to express a reason for his own views as if according to the views of another. M. 357. obs. 1; S. 490; H. 520, II.

INGENIUM, faculties of the mind, natura, feelings of the heart, indoles, faculties of the mind before cultivation.

NE NOS QUIDEM. M. 457; S. 656; H. 602, III., 2. HUIC UNI STUDIO, alluding to his own poems, written before he began to write prose.

HUMANITAS, liberal education, humanitas, indicates the moral characteristics, the refinement or education of the qualities. feeling and inclinations of mankind, whereas cultus denotes the outward characteristics of civilization, manner or style of living, dress and habits.

VINCULUM, bond.

- QUASI COGNATIONE, quasi stands before a word, to signify that it is used to express a thing figuratively and by way of approximation. M. 444, obs. 2; compare philosophia laudatarum artium omnium quasi parens. C. Or. I, 3, 9.
- INTER SE CONTINENTUR, mutually hang together, inter se is the classical form of the reciprocal pronoun. M. 490, obs. 6; S. 362, obs.; H. 448. Cf. etiam feros inter se partus et educatio conciliat. C. Ros. Am. 22. § 3. C. II. VESTRUM. M. 79, 297; S. 359.

- ME - HOC UTI, acc. + inf. Subject of videatur and depending on mirum.
- QUAESTIONE LEGITIMA, in a judicial investigation. The prosecution against Archias was instituted in accordance with the Lex Papia, and was therefore a public investigation.
- QUUM RES AGATUR, when a case is being tried, for agatur see M. 358; S. 485; H. 518, II., 3.
- PRAETOREM, Cicero's brother, Quintus. 27, 37, 40, 43, were the ages requisite for quaestor, aedile, practor, and consul, respectively, on entering office.
- VIR-, $\vec{\alpha} \nu \eta \rho$, and is used when anything good is attributed to man, whereas homo, like Greek $\alpha \nu \theta \rho \omega \pi o 5$, is used in all other instances.
- JUDICES, jurors were selected from the senators, equites, and tribunes of the treasury by the passing of the Lex Aurelia, в. с. 70.

TANTO CONVENTU, in so great an assembly : in local relations the prep. in is sometimes omitted. M. 273.

A - - - FORENSI SERMONE, with the language of the Bar.

REUS, the prisoner, lit. a party in an action (res).

ME, object of patiamini.

POETA = $\pi oi\eta \tau \eta 5$, a composer, vates = $\mu \alpha \nu \tau^{3} 5$, an inspired bard.

DICENTEM, while speaking.

- HOC CONCURSU (SC. IN), hoc is emphatic.
- HOC VESTRA HUMANITATE - EXERCENTE, this your good breeding—abl. absolute.
- IN PERSONA, in the case of a character or person; persona (fr. per sono, i.e., the thing sounded through), was a mask or false face, which actors wore, hence it, like $\delta \pi \sigma \lambda \rho i \tau \eta 5$, was used to denote a character on the stage : here we have it used of Archias, who, owing to his retirement (otium) and study (studium) had acquired a character, inexperienced in courts; cf. Juvenal III. 175.
- POR persona minime tractata est, has been very little practised, lit. handled. Cf. Ter. Heau. III. 2, 45. Et nae ego te, si usus veniat, magnifice, Chreme, Tractare possim.
- PERICULUM, fr. Indo-European PAR, bringing over, whence $\pi \iota \pi \rho \alpha \sigma \kappa \omega$, $\pi o \rho 0 \mu \delta \delta$, $\pi \epsilon \iota \rho \alpha$ Gothic farjan, Lat. peritus, portus, and our ferry: is danger, of which discrimen is the critical moment.
- UTI, inf. of utor.

§ 4. QUOD - - - TRIBUL, acc. + inf. after sentiam.

- SEGREGANDUM (SC. ESSE)—after verbs of sentiendi et declarandi the infinitive is generally omitted, except in the past tenses.
- QUUM CIVIS SIT, quum causalis takes the subjunctive.
- § 4, C. III. NAM refers to the preceding sentence. Nam, in the best prose, always comes first, but enim is regularly after the first or the first two or more closely-connected words, in a sentence, and is less emphatic.
- UT, is here strengthened by primum, and in the case of oratio directa, is followed by the Perfect, but in oratio obligua as here it precedes either the Perf. or Pl'perf. Indic.

NAM UT PRIMUM, for as soon as ever.

EX PUERIS, like $\dot{\epsilon}\xi\epsilon\lambda\eta\epsilon\tilde{\imath}\nu$ $\dot{\epsilon}\xi$ $\dot{\epsilon}\eta\eta\beta\omega\nu$. Xen. Cyr. I. 2, 12. Compare "nam is postquam excessit ex ephebis, Sosia," Ter. And. I. 1, 24.

AETAS PUERILIS, why not aetas pueritiae? S. 611.

ANTIOCHAE. There was originally in all the Aryan languages a case expressive of locality, which grammarians call the locative. Thus, heart in Sanskrit is hrid; in the heart, is kridi. Here, therefore, the termination of the locative is slimply short i. This short i is a demonstrative root, and in all probability the same root which in Latin produced the preposition in. Müller, vol. 1., p. 253. When the use of the Locative was discontinued, proper nouns of the first and second declensions, singular, expressed place where by the genitive, in other cases the ablative was employed; hence the reason that urbe, although in apposition with Antiochiae, is in the ablative. The locative is found in the following :--cotidie, postridie; tanti, quanti (cf. Roby's L. G., § 1187); vesperi, ubi, ibi, militiae, domi, ruri, humi, belli, &c. S. 256; H. 421. For similar construction, cf. Tac. Hist. II. 1. Vespasianus Corinthi, Achajae urbe, nuntios accepit de Galbae interitu. Cf. M. 296.

LOCO NOBILI = honestis parentibus, of a good family. Cf. "Natus haud obscuro loco." Sallust's Cat., c. 24. An abl. of source. M. 269; S. 310; H. 425.

CELEBRI - - - URBE, a much-frequented city.

EI, omitted in the best editions.

What case is omnibus? M. 243; S. 292; H. 386.

CONTIGIT, contingo, generally of good fortune; accido, of bad; erenio, of either.

IN CETERIS ASIAE PARTIBUS, i.e., in all other parts of Asia : Antioch being excepted.

CELEBRABANTUR, were being much or frequently talked of.

§ 5. ERAT ITALIA TUM—notice the order. There was quietness in Rome and Southern Italy from the death of C. Gracchus, B.C. 121, until the beginning of the Social or Marsic war, B.C. 90; and consequently literature was cultivated, and the arts flourished.

ARTIUM AC DISCIPLINARUM, of arts and sciences.

OPPIDIS, in contrast, to urbs Roma.

NON NEGLIGEBANTUK, were being much cultivated, notice the litotes, cf. "Amorte, et non neglexisse habeo gratiam."

Ter. Phorm. 1. 2, 4.

" Narcissa's daughter tolerably mild To make a wash would hardly stew a child."

-Pope.

CIVITATE, with citizenship. What other construction is more frequently found with dono?

EXISTIMARUNT (SC. EUM ESSE) DIGNUM.

MARIO CONSULE ET CATULO; ordinary construction, Mario et Catulo consulibus, B.C. 102, when Marius was consul for the fourth time. Since the verb sum has no present or Perfect Participle, Mario et Catulo are simply placed in apposition with consulibus.

ALTER - - - alter, i.e., Marius - - - Catulus.

PRIMUM, first, statim, afterwards.

ADHIBERE, furnish; aures adhibere, cf. "lend me your ears." -J. C. SHAKS.

LUCULLI, L. Licinius Lucullus, who commanded in the Mithridatic war; and M. Licinius Lucullus, consul B.C. 73.

- PRAETEXTATUS, the toga praetexta was worn till the fourteenth year.
- SED JAM HOC, but further this is not only a proof of his ability and literary attainments, but also of his disposition. Jam here introduces a climax, as if he said "But the crowning point of all is this (hoc) that I am going to mention-viz., 'ut domus quae,' &c.," which is the expansion of hoc. INGENII - LITTERARUM - NATURAE - VIRTUTIS, are possessive
- genitives.
- § 6. ILLI NUMIDICO, Metellus obtained the agnomen Numidicus from his triumph over Jugurtha, B.C. 107, ille well known.
- M. AEMILIO, M. Aemilius Scaurus, consul B.C. 115 and 108. and an orator.
- L. CRASSO, L. Crassus, the great orator, who died B.C. 91.
- DRUSUM. M. Livius Drusus, tribune of the Plebs, who took the part of the allied States, and proposed that the freedom of the City of Rome should be given to them; he died B.C. 91.
- CATONEM, probably, Marcus Porcius Cato, who killed himself at Utica.
- HORTENSIORUM, L. and Q. Hortensius, father and son: the latter Cicero's rival in oratory.
- SIMULABANT, quod non simulo dissimuloque quod est.
- C. IV. INTERIM SATIS LONG INTERVALLO, meanwhile, after a sufficiently long interval, an ablative absol. to express time when, it is properly used of space. Rex Juba sex millium passuum intercallo consedit. Caes. B.G. II. 30. The meaning is, that Archias (as related in the previous chapter), after his arrival at Rome, stayed a "considerable time" previous to setting out to Italy with L. Lucullus, brother of M. Lucullus.
- QUUM DECEDERET, subjunctive of hypothesis.
- HERACLEA, was admitted B.C. 277, through the influence of the consul, Gaius Fabricius. The communities of Neapolis, Rhegium, Locri, and Thurii were also admitted to Roman citizenship, their young men being exempted from serving in the legions, and destined solely for the watching of the coasts. It is supposed that the father of L. Lucullus was, at this time, living at Heraclea, in exile.
- QUAE QUUM ESSET CIVITAS, and since this state Subjunctive of cause. When a relative introduces a sentence it is always best translated by resolving it into et + is, ea, id, as the case may be.
- AEQUISSIMO JURE AC FOEDERE, of most honourable compact and privilege, descriptive ablatives; acquissimo doee not strictly apply to foedere ; foedus, a sucred agreement. Jus, a legal right.

NOTES.

QUUM - - - TUM, both because - - - and cspecially, quum being both connective and causative, hence putaretur.

§ 7. SILVANI LEGE, more frequently called "Lex Plautia et Papiria," and was passed B.C. 89.

SI QUI - - - ASCRIPTI FUISSENT, subjunctive, since the substance of the law is given. For force of ascripti, cf. C. Pro Balbo, c. 12.

CIVITATIBUS, dative gov. by ad in adscripti.

DOMICILIUM, defined near the end of this chapter "is, qui tot annis ante civitatem.

METELLUS, Q. Caecilius (Pius), son of Numidicus, and praetor B.C. 89.

AUCTORITATE ET RELIGIONE ET FIDE, descriptive ablatives, ; religio, "that which binds," refers to inward obligation through the conscience, while fides [fido], to outward obligation, through a promise.

OPINARI SED SCIRE, imagine-know-inf, after dicit: observe the strong antithesis.

ASCRIPTUM HERACLEENSIUM—Halm quotes Cic. De Nat. Deorum, III. 15:--" Romulum nostri aliosque complures, quos quasi novos et adscriptitos cives in caelum receptos putant.

Cf. Horace Carm. III. 3.

illum ego lucidas Inire sedes, ducere nectaris Succos, et adscribi quietis Ordinibus patiar deorum.

ascripti dicebantur, qui in colonias nomina dedissent, ut essent coloni.

Fest. p. 14, Müll.

§ 8. C. IV. TABULAE, were two thin boards joined with hinges, and covered on the inner side with wax. Writing was performed on the wax by means of a sharp metal pencil (stilus). This passage proves that Archias, previous to the Marsie war, B.C. 91, had been enrolled at Heraclea. Italico bello, i.e., the Marsie war, ablative of time.

EST REDICULUM, rediculum is in apposition with the rest of the clause, hence nihil dicere. M. 388, C.; S. 510.

TACERE, not to speak ; silere, not to make a noise.

FLAGITARE, to be importaning; he intentionally uses this word rather than postulo or rogo.

QUUM HABEAS, although you have, concessive subjunctive.

FROM "EST REDICULUM," to the end of chapter, we have all the "legal points" of the defence mentioned.

INTEGERRIMI MÜNICIPII, i.e., Civitas Romana, or of the Class Latini. Civis is he who possesses the complete rights of a Roman citizen, Peregrinus was incapable of exercising the rights of commercium and connubium, which were the characteristic rights of a Roman citizen; but he had a capacity for making all kinds of contracts which were allowable by the jus gentium. The Latinus was an intermediate state; he had not the connubium, and, consequently, he had not the patria potestas or rights of agnatio; but he had the commercium, or the right of acquiring quiritarian ownership, as the power of making a will in Roman form, and of becoming heres under a will. Smith's Dict. of Antiq. When this oration was delivered, Heraclea was a munici*pium*, whereas it was a civitas foederata when Archias was said to have been enrolled.

- § 9. AT, Cicero is here taking up the clauses of the indictment. At is frequently employed to introduce in a new proposition an objection stated by one's self or another, or the obviating an objection (yes, but). M. 437; C. cf. C. Mil. 6, 15-"Quid porro quaerendum est? Factumne sit? At Constet. A quo? At Patet. OMNIUM RERUM, of all his possessions.
- AN NON EST PROFESSUS, did he not make a public statement ? Cicero anticipates an objection to Archias' having pitched his home at Rome. An, in this passage, has the force of nonne. M. 359.
- IMMQ VERO, "yes, indeed."
- COLLEGIOQUE PRAETORUM, till B.C. 52 there were only 8 praetors ; these were sometimes called a "collegium practorium." (Cic. Off. III., 20, 80).
- § 9. C. V. APPII, Appius, Gabinius, Metellus and Lentulus were all praetors B. C. 89. Notice the contrast levitas - -diligentia.
- INCOLUMIS, safe in as much as it still stands; salrus, safe and sound ; integer, unimpared, untouched ; sospes safe after having been in danger; vix una sospes navis ab ignibus. Hor. Car I. 37, 13.
- RESIGNASSET, rescinded. Subj. since such is the supposed cause : resignare means to unseal - - - litteras C. Att. XI, 9, 2: hence to take off the seals from a will. "Adducit febres ct testamenta resignat." (Hor. Ep. 1. 7, 9.) If the seals were off, a will could be falsified ; and so when Gabinius was deposed, the registers were probably carelessly kept; and thus erasures, or insertions, might be made.
- § 10. Fuerit ascriptus, not "sit ascriptus," because for the present the value of the uscriptio had ceased, since these civitates had become municipia (Halm).
- MEDIOCRIBUS MULTIS, on many very ordinary men.
- GRATUITO, another reading is " non gravate."
- GRAECIA, Greece Proper or Magna Graecia, very probably the latter.

CREDO, ironical.

SCENICIS ARTIFICIBUS, stage actors were regarded with contempt; Caesar compelled Liberius to recite his own verses on the stage. Orator plurimum aberit a scenico. Quintil I-11, 3.

QUID (SC. DICAM), a favourite rhetorical climax with Cicero. M. 479 d., obs. I.

LEGEM PAPIAN, C. Papius, a tribune of the people, the originator of the Lex Papia. De pergrinis exterminandis, C. Off. III. 11, 47. It was aimed, especially, against the Transpadane Gauls, who were anxious to exchange their Latin franchise for that of Rome. Caesar had become their patron, and this law was intended also to gall him. The Lex Papia de percyrinis or de civitate Romana was passed B.C. 65.

QUUM - - - IRREPSERINT, insinuated themselves; subjunctive of indefinite time, as well as because, ceteri indicates no particular individuals.

CENSUS, the census was taken every five years, and was an inventory of the number of people, property, &c. Census nostros requiris. Scilicet; est, &c., is another reading.

- SCILICET, forsooth, ironical.
- § 11. C. V. HUNC FUISSE, acc+inf. in app to obscurum.
- PROXIMIS CENSORIBUS, abl, abs., "under the last censors."

APUD EXERCITUM, non in c.cercitu, since Archias was not serving in the army.

- JULIO ET CRASSO, CENSORS B. C. 89,
- NULLAM POPULI, &C. acc+inf after cst obscurum.
- QUI SIT CENSUS, subjunctive since no particular person is specified.
- ITA, further supplemented by "pro cive."

SE, always used for object when reference is made to the subject of the verb, sometimes it is used in a dependent clause when it refers to the subject of the principal proposition, e.g., Ariovistus respondit, si quid Caesar a se velit, illum ad se venire.

SE JAM TUM GESSISSE, object of indicat.

QUAE TU CRIMINARIS, which you complain of, that not even in his own opinion, &c., quae, refers to its temporibus, and ne ipsius quidem, &c., is an objective clause to specify the charge. c.f. Metellum apud populum criminatus est bellum, illum ducere, &c., C. Off. III. 20, 79.

TESTAMÉNTUM, peregrini could not dispose of their property after the form of a Roman will (S. Dict. Antiq.). ~

SAEPE, rehetorical exaggeration.

IN BENEFICIIS AD AERARIUM DELATUS EST, and was reported at the treasury amongst those who had done good services to the State. It was customary for a general or governor of a province, on the expiration of his term of office, to hand in the names of those who had done good service to the State. Aerarium, the public treasury; fiscus, thé emperor's treasury. Defero is the word always used for bringing down any information before the senate.

PRAETORE ET CONSULE, the correct reading is proconsule.

§ 11 C. VI. SI QUAE POTES, i.e., si qua argumenta quaerere potes. By potes Cicero allows that Gratius can bring forward arguments, otherwise he would have said "possis."

- JUS, law or equity as established by public authority or custom, whereas lex, a specific enactment.
- QUAERES - DELECTEMUR, oratio obliqua, the oratio directa would be "Cur tanto opere hoc homins delectamur ?"
- QUIA, when quia introduces a sentence denoting the real cause it takes the Indic.

UBI=id quo.

CONVICIUM, akin to vox; a noise caused by many voices;

" Clamorem ranae sustulere ad sidera

Convicio permotus quaerit Jupiter.

-Phaedrus I. 6, 4.

- Erant autem convivia non illo silentio praetorum populi Romani
- Atque imperatorum, neque eo pudore qui in magistratuum
- Conviviis versari solet, sed cum maximo clamore atque convicio.

-C. VERREM, II. 5, 11.

- AES. Ante aedes non fecisse erit melius hic convicium—Ter. Adelphi II. 1, 26. Proverb, "Septem convivium: novem vero convicium."
- AN TU EXISTIMAS, or do you think; either that there can be at hand to us, that which, dc. Suppeto, to come near to one, hence, to be in store cf. ne mihi crimina non suppeterent. Cic II. Ver. I. 2. 31.

IN TANTA VARIETATE, in here denotes the sphere of Cicero's employment.

- CONTENTIONEM, opp. to relaxemus.
- EOS, is, always refers to something previously mentioned or implied.
- CETEROS, i.e, all but Cicero.
- LITTERIS, abl. of means.

FRUCTUM, store, cf.

"Venturaeque hiemis memores aestate laborem

Experiuntur et in medium quaesita reponunt."

VIRGIL'S GEO. IV. 156-7.

ME AUTEM QUID PUDEAT, but what is there for me to be ashamed of. Pudeat is the independent Subjunctive, in a question of appeal.

NOTES.

COMMODUM cf. "et meus labor in privatorum periculis versatus." —C. MANIL I. 1.

TEMPORE cf. "omne meum tempus amicorum temporibus transmittendum putavi."—C. MANIL I. 1.

§ 13. C. VI. FESTOS DIES, i.e., feriae publicae, as opposed to working days; were taken up with games and sacrifices. Mom. Vol. I, Ch. XII.

TEMPESTIVIS CONVIVIIS, SO convivium. C. Mur. 6, 13; C. Cat. II., 5, 10; Juv., I, 58, ALVEOLO, viz., tabula aleatoria, gaming board.

PILA, a favourite game with the Romans. Indoctusque pilae discive, trochive quiescit.—Hor. A. P., 380.

HOC ADEO, another reading is, ideo; for crescit others read censetur. ORATIO ET FACULTAS, is an Hendiadys for orationis facultas. M.

481, a; S. 602; H. 704, II. 2.

QUAE, i.e., facultas.

cui, gov. by defuit, compounds of sum, except possum c. dat.

QUAE SI - - VIDETUR, and if this talent seems (as I know it does, force of Indic); illa, he refers to praceptis multisque listeris, and also to the study of Greek literature. Vide X. 23.

§ 14. NIHIL ESSE - - - EXPETENDUM, obj. of suasissem.

IN EA AUTEM PERSEQUENDA, moreover, in seeking to obtain these (i.e., honestatem et laudem).

HOS IMPETUS, referring to the Catiline conspiracy of the year before.

VOCES, utterances.

EXEMPLORUM, gen. after plena. Those adjectives which denote richness or plenty or deficiency in anything, take either genitive or ablative. M. 290 e; S. 276; H. 399, 3.

PLENI - - - PLENAE, gov. praeceptorum understood, referring to praeceptis multisque litteris.

VETUSTAS, antiquity.

QUAE JACERENT, &c, all of which would be lying in obscurity were not the light of literature to approach them, for lumen cf. "hunc lumen quondam rebus nostris dubiis fûturum." Liv. I. 39: and Hor, Car, IV. 8, 13.

NOTES.

- IMAGINES, pictures, properly applied to a statue; here it is used figuratively; imagines, quae, έιδωλα nominant, quorum incursione non solum videmus sed etiam cogitamus. C. Fin. I. 6, 21.
- EXPRESSAS, "set forth," depicted. cf. Tac. Agricola, ch. 46: non quia intercedendum, putem imaginibus ita simulacra vultus imbecilla ac mortalia sunt, forma mentis aeterna: quam tenere et exprimere non per alienam materiam et artem, sed tuis ipse moribus possis.
- ANIMUM ET MENTEM, animus (Indo-European AN to blow), denotes the disposition or mind as the seat of the passions, &c.= Gr. $\Theta i \mu os$; $anima = \psi v \chi \eta$, the soul, the undying part of man; mens= $\varphi \rho \delta' \nu \delta s$, the intellectual part.
- IPSA COGITATIONE. by the very contemplation.
- § 15. C. VII. QUAFRET, here as in the beginning of the preceeding chapter Cicero anticipates supposed objections.
- ILLI IPSI SUMMI VIRI, were those very eminent men, whose decds of valour have been handed down to us in literature, trained in that science, which then art extelling with thy praises? Virtus with the Romans had not the moral signification which we express by virtue, but like, Gk. $\dot{\alpha}\nu\delta\rho\epsilon i\alpha$, denoted becoming or meritorious actions. Cicero refers especially to those mentioned in "Cato Major," such as Nestor, Themistocles, Aristides, Xenophon, Socrates, Cato, Fabricius, &c.
- DIFFICILE - in app. with hoc - confirmare.
- CERTUM - in app. with quid - respondeam.
- FUISSE, the perfect absolute which is used to express a thing as done and completed in contradistinction to the present. M. 335, b.
- ET SINE DOCTRINA, and without erudition, by the almost divine character of nature itself, of their own selves have stood prominently forth as men both moderate and great; obj. of fateor.
- SAEPIUS AD LAUDEM, in app. with illud, hence acc. and inf.
- DOCTRINA, doctrina : est unum perfugium doctrina ac litterae, quibus semper usi sumus.—C. Fam VI., 12.

"Doctrina sed vim permovet insitam Rectique cultus pectora roborant."-Hor. Car. IV., 4.

- ATQUE IDEM EGO HOC CONTENDO, and I likewise maintain this; for this use of idem, cf 'Caninius idem et idem noster quum ad me pervesperi venisset. C. Fam IX. 2, 1. Idem is often employed where something new is said of a person or thing already mentioned, to denote either similarity (likewise, also, at the same time) or an apposition (yct, on the other hand). M. § 488 cf Zumpt §§ 127, 697. S. 375. H. 451, 3.
- QUUM - ACCESSERIT, when there have been added; accedo, when used impersonally, as here=addi; and is used to introduce a new idea to a previous assertion; Zumpt §§ 621, 623. M. 373, obs. 3.

- RATIO, system. Cicero is very partial to videor, versor and ratio. S. 704, 705.
- TUM ILLUD, then there is wont to come forth something pre-eminent and remarkable; lit. that I know not what (to call it. Sc. nominet); here nescio quid is parenthetical and refers to illud. M. 356, obs. 3, S. 26 obs. H. 525, 4.
- § 16. EX HOC ESSE HUNC NUMERO (SC. CONTENDO), Africanus the Younger as "quem nostri patres viderunt" implies.
- C. LAELIUM, who served as a model for Cicero's De Amicitia.
- L. FURIUM, L. F. Philus, consul B.C. 135, who is introduced as a speaker in Cicero's republic.
- § 16. C. VII. M. CATONEM ILLUM SENEM, illum, either wellknown, or elder, as we have above hunc - - - Africanum. A. the younger, M. Poreius Cato B. C. (234-149), is the old man, the Censor (B. C. 184), who brought on the third Punic war, "Carthago delenda est;" and learned Greek in order to be able to teach his son.

- NIHIL, acc. of respect after adjuvarentur.
- OSTENDERETUR, PETERTEUR, & JUDICABETIS, hypothetical subjunctive.
- ANIMADVERSIONEM, "occupation."

NAM CETERAE, for all other occupations of the mind, i.e. except study; omnium, belongs to all three genitives equally.

- TEMPORUM, genitive of characteristic M. 282; S. 266; H. 403. ADVERSIS, dat. gov. by prae in praebent.
- FORIS, a locative case used adverbially lit, "at the doors,"
 - 17. ATTINGERE, "enjoy," this use of attingere is Fare,
 - cf. Illic Phylacides jocundae conjugis heros
 - Non potuit caecis memor esse locis,

Sed cupidus falsis attingere gaudia palmis,

Thessalus antiquam venerat umbra domum.

-PROP. I., 19-9.

- 17 C. VIII. ANIMO, descriptive abl.; for the position of agresti a: duro. Vide M 466, S 671.
 - ROSCIUS. To the close of this epoch belongs the greatest of Roman actors, the freedman Quintius Roscius (about 62 g.c. at a great age), throughout several generations the ornament and pride of the Roman stage, the friend and welcome boon-companion of Sulla. His annual income was £6,000. He obtained from the State for every day on which he acted 1,000 denarü (£40), and, besides this, the pay for his company. At the same time, immense sums were expended on decorations and costumes; now and then trains of six hundred mules in harness crossed the stage, and the Trojan theatrical army was employed to represent to the public a tableau of the nations vanquished by Pompeius in Asia. Musical and dramatic connoisseurship was developed; the habitué recognised every tune by the first note, and knew the texts by heart; every fault in the music or recitation was severely censured by the audience. The state of the Roman stage in the time of Cicero vividly reminds us of the modern French theatre.—MOMMEN, Vol. IV., 693.

QUI PROFECTO, who surely.

VENUSTATEM, grace.

OMNINO MORI NON DEBUISSE, that he ought not to have been destined to die atall; debeo, especially from Virgil's time, conveyed the idea that destiny had to be fulfilled, like Gk. $\dot{\phi}\varphi i\lambda\omega; -\theta\alpha\nu\dot{\alpha}\tau\omega$ $\pi\dot{\alpha}\nu\tau\varepsilon\varsigma$ $\dot{\sigma}\varphi i\lambda\dot{\phi}\mu\varepsilon\theta\alpha$. Debemur morti nos nostraque. Hor. A. P. 63.

CONCILIARAT. Syncope. Vide M. 173. S 110. H. 234.

NEGLIGEMUS—notice the Indic; what would negligamus express?
j 18 ME--- ATTENDITIS, attenditis, is here used absolutely; the more usual mode would have been me --- animos attenditis - me, as the limit of motion, is gov. by the ad in attenditis.

HUNC - - DICERE EXTEMPORE, obj. of vidi. It was probably by his power of extempore composition that Archias made so great a sensation in the cities which he visited. Cicero mentions an Antipater of Sidon, who could pour out extempore verses (fundere extempore). Cicero (De Or. III. 50) thus explains the power of improvising tantum hominis ingeniosi ac memoris valuit exercitatio, ut quum se mente ac voluntate conjecisset in versum verba sequerentar.

QUOTIES REVOCATUM (SC. EUM VIDI).

COMMUTATIS VERBIS, abl. absolute.

UT - - - PERVENIRENT. Subj. of result, notice force of per, righ tup to.

HUNC NON DILIGAM? Dubitative subjunctive. M. 353. DEFENDENDUM (SC. EUM) PUTEM.

ET DOCTRINA ET PRAECEPTIS ET ARTE CONSTARE, consists in science, maxims and art.

POETAM, obj. of acceptions. Poeta was higher than versificator but inferior to vates. Versificator quam poeta melior, a better verse-composer than poet. Quint. X, 1, 89.

Quod si me lyricis vatibus inseris,

Sublimi feriam sidera vertice.

-HOR. CAR. I. ± 35.

INFLARI, cf. Persius V. 185-6.

"Tum grandes Galli et cum sistro lusca sacerdos

NOTES.

QUOD - - - VIDEANTUR, subjunctive, beause it is the supposed, but not actual, reason. M. 357; S. 490; H. 520, II.

MUNERE, bounty, probably more honourable and abundant than donum.

SIT, subjunctive used imperatively.

HOC POETAE NOMEN, poetae is the genitive of definition. M. 286; S. 275; H. 396.

VOCI RESPONDENT, i.e., return the echo.

BESTIAE SAEPE, Cicero alludes to Orpheus, and, as usual, limits suepe.

- MOVEAMUR, deliberative subjunctive, the first pl. is not frequently used in this way.
- Argos, Athenae; Chios, Colophon; Smyrna, Salamis; and
 Rhodes, laid claim to Homer. All of these, however, Smyrna and Chios excepted, had only an indirect claim. Homer was an Ionian belonging to one of the families which went from "Ephesus to Smyrna. - - - But when Smyrna drove out the Ionians, it deprived itself of this poetical renown; and the settlement of the Homerids in Chios was, in all probability, a consequence of the expulsion of the Ionians from Smyrna. - - On the other hand, the opinion that Homer was a Smyrnaean - - - appears to have been the prevalent belief in the flourishing times of Greece."—

Literature of Ancient Greece : Müller & Donaldson, Vol. I., C. V. § 19. C. IX. ALIENUM, the singular of the adjective is used as a substantive, (1) when applied to a class or used as a collective noun, e. g. (domus) cujusvis inopis atque privati. Nep. Ages. 7, 4. Parcitur inermi; very frequently in Livy, especially in the case of proper names, e. g., Africanus Major, minor, Piso Frugi. (2) In the philosophical style, e. g., nobilis indoctus (Juv. VIII. 49), an unlearned noble.

(3) When in near relationship to a substantive, as here. quod esset aut ab amico aut a gratioso, aut a consule postulandum. C. Pro Murena § 7. (4) When the context makes it quite clear as to what is meant, qua (Sc. assentio) non modo amico sod ne libero quidem digna est. C. Cael. XXIV. 89.

POETA FUIT, was (but is no more. Troes fuinus. "Troja fuit"). REPUDIAMUS, deliberative subjunctive.

QUUM - - - CONTULERIT, hypothetical.

- CIMBRICAS RES ADDLESCENS ATTIGIT—when a young man touched upon, i.e., began to write about Marius' victory over, and annihilation of, the Cimbri, at Raudii Campii, a broad plain near Verona; B.C. 102: For addlescens of M. 68.
- § 20 MUSAE, (=Moυσα, the teacher. cf L&S. Lex). fr. MA to measure. Same root as moneo.

ACROAMA, $= \ddot{\alpha} \mu \rho o \alpha \mu \alpha$, recitation. "The works of Aristotle were classed as acromatic, or autoprosopic writings, which were systematic treatises, addressed to duly prepared hearers, and delivered in the writer's own person, and the exoteric, or dialogical, which were occasional and desultory essays, in the form of dialogues."—Müller L. G. Vol. II, p. 277. "Nemo in convivio ejus (Attici) aliud acroama audivit, quam anagnosten."—Nepos. Att. XIV. 1.

- L: PLOTIUM, nothing of certainty is known of this man; some say that it was he who taught rhetoric and Latin at Rome, B.C. 88.
- § 21, MITHRIDATICUM BELLUM, i.e., the third Mithridatic war B.C. (74-63). Mithridates VI., Eupator, died B.C. 63, twentysix years after he had first taken the field against the Romans.
- TOTUM, entirely. Neuter used adverbially.
- QUI LIBRI, implied in expressum for qui, agreeing with libri. cf. M. 316, 317. S. 229. H 445, 4 & 5.
- LUCULLO IMPERANTE, abl. absol. denoting both time and agent. OPIBUS. cf. M. 51, S. 51, H. 132.
- NON MAXIMA MANU, with a small band. Litotes cf. C. Cat. IV. 5-10. abesse non neminem.
- URBEM AMICISSIMAM - EREPTAMATQUE SERVATAM, apposition with laws cf. Pro Lege Manil. VIII. 20.
- NOSTRA, is predicative, and agrees with depressa classis, the subject of feratur and praedicabitur.
- DEPRESSA HOSTIUM CLASSIS=depressio hostium classis, the sinking of the enemy's fleet. - M. 426. S. 596. H. 580.
- PUGNA ILLA, pugna, more sanguinary than, proclium. Demonstrative pronouns stand before the substantive, if no particular emphasis is to be laid on the latter. --M. 466, obs. 2.
- § 21. C. IX. NOSTRA - NOSTRA - NOSTRI, emphatic.
- § 22. ENNIUS. Ennius, the contemporary of Naevius and Plautus, though somewhat younger, was the first to translate Euripides. Ennius, like Andronicus, was an Italian Greek, who settled at Rome, as a teacher of languages and translator of Greek. He was patronised by the liberal party, by Publius Scipio, Titus Flaminius, and Marcus Fulvius Nobilior. He became a Roman citizen. But Ennius was more than a poet, more than a teacher of languages. He has been called a neologian. Even Cato, the stubborn enemy of Greek philosophy and rhetoric, was a friend of the dangerous (because an unbeliever in the gods of Greece and Rome) Ennius; and such was the growing influence of Greek at Rome, that Cato himself had to learn it in his old age, in order to teach his boy what he considered, if not useful, at least harmless, in Greek literature. Müller, Vol, I., pp. 111, 112.

CONSTITUTUS E MARMORE, cf. Virg. Ecl. VII., 31, 32, "levi de marmore tota Puniceo stabis suros evincta cothurno,"

- HUJUS PROAVUS CATO, i.e., Cato Uticensis, who may have been present (hujus), his great-grandfather, Cato the Censor, brought Ennius to Rome. Pater, avus, proavus, abavus, atavus, tritavus.
- MAXIMI, especially Q. Fabius Maximus Cunctator (*the Lin*gerer). M. Glaudius Marcellus, Sword of Rome, and Capturer of Syracuse. Q. Fulvius Flaccus was he, who distinguished himself in the second Punic war.
- § 22. C. X. RUDINUM - HERACLEENSEM. He contrasts citizens of Rudiae and Heraclea.
- IN HAC AUTEM, &c., and moreover has been created a citizen in this State.
- § 23. NAM, nam is more emphatic than cnim, and begins its own clause; cnim stands second and is often used as a particle. Here it may be translated by "for," or perhaps "now;" as it introduces an explanation to an implied objection for preferring Archias, a Greek, to Ennius, a Latin.
- GRAECIS VERSIBUS - EX LATINIS; "The classical Latin is one out of many dialects spoken by the Aryan inhabitants of Italy. It was the dialect of Latium, in Latium the dialect of Rome, at Rome the dialect of the Patricians. It was fixed by Livius Andronicus, Ennius, Naevius, Cato and Lucretius, polished by the Scipios, Hortensius and Cicero. It was the language of a restricted class, of a political party, of a literary set."—Müller, Vol. I. p. 64. Such were its bounds in Cicero's time, but one century later Latin was the language of legislation, religion, literature, and general civilization.
- QUOD GRAECA; "As far as we can tell, the barbarians seem to have possessed a greater facility for acquiring languages than either Greeks or Romans. Soon after the Macedonian conquest, we find Berosus in Babylon, Meander in Tyre, and Manaetho in Egypt, compiling, from original sources, the annals of their countries. Their works were written in Greek, and for the Greeks."—Müller, Vol. I., p. 100. Even at Rome, Greek was generally studied. Cicero spoke Greek in the Senate of Syracuse, Augustus in the town of Alexandria. Boys and girls, as Ovid relates, used to read the plays of Meander: "Solet puccis rirginibusque legi;" and Juvenal (Sat. VI. 186, seq.) exclaims :

'Omnia Graece,

Cum sit turpe magis nostris nescire Latine: Hoc sermone pavent, hoc iram, gaudia, curas Hoc cuncta effundunt animi secreta."

The religious life of the higher Roman society at the close of the Punic wars, was more Greek than Roman. Caesar tells us that the Druids employed Greek characters (VI. 14) and that the same were found in the camp of the Helvetii (I. 29).

- ORBIS TERRAE REGIONIBUS, by the boundary lines of the circle of the world; a favourite rhetorical hyperbole with Cicero. See § 29, "regionibus vitae"—Cic. Cat. III. 11, 25. "Quorum alter fines vestri imperi non terrae, sed caeli regionibus terminaret;" also, IV. X, 21, "Anteponatur omnibus Pompeius, cujus res gestae atque virtutes iisdem quibus solis cursus regionibus ac terminis continentur;" also, C. Balb. 28, 64; Pro. Sest. § 67.
- PERVENIRENT, hypothetical; notice the force of per.
- § 23. C. X. QUOD QUUM, because these are honourable not only for the nations themselves about whose exploits the history is written, but also, &c.
- § 24. QUI=(QUUM TU) - INVENERIS, since thou hast found. Relative propositions are put in the conjunctive, when they are intended to express the reason of the leading proposition, so that qui approaches to the signification of quum is. M. 366; S. 621.
- QUID (SC. DICAM). An ellipsis is always admissable where no ambiguity exists.
- NOSTER HIC MAGNUS. Compare "magnus ille Alexander" supra. Adjectives are usually placed after the substantive; but are placed before, where we wish to give particular prominence to the adjective, e.g. in the first noster is the prominent feature.

THEOPHANEM - - - CIVITATE DONAVIT. Express this differently. § 25. ITAQUE CREDO, highly ironical.

- IMPERATORE, i.e. one on whom the imperium (i.e. the power of carrying on any military operation, in the name and on behalf of the State) had been conferred by the lex passed in the comitia curiata.
- QUUM - DONARET (SC. CIVITATE), subj. of indefinite time.
- PETENTEM=Si petivisset M. 424, S. 530, H. 503, III. 2.
- QUUM EI LIBELLUM, &c., when a bad poet from amongst the people had passed up to him a petition, because he had only made an epigram on him, with the alternate lines rather long, i.e. alternate hexameters and pentameters; ei is governed by sub in subjecisset. Sulla was selling the effects of the proscribed Romans from his tribunal.
- QUI (=IS QUI) CUPERET for subj. as above duxerit, vide M. 362; S. 475.

§ 26. USQUE EO, lit. all the way thither, to such a degree.

- CUPERET, used to desire, i.e. habitual desire.
- UT ETIAM. So that even to poets born at Corduba, although smacking of something blunt and foreign, yet he used to devote his attention.

PINCUE QUIDDAM, cf. " pingui Minerva, ut aiunt," also "Rusticus abnormis sapiens crassaque Minervâ. Hor. II. Sat. II. 3. Boeotia was proverbial for the pingue ingenium of its inhabitants.

- C. XI. NEQUE ENIM, nor indeed should this be disguised which cannot be concealed, but must be kept prominently before us; cf. "neque enim id est celare quicquid reticeas."—C. Off. III. 13.
- ET OPTIMUS QUISQUE, and every best man, i.e., all taken individually, for quisque is never used in the sense of omnes.—M. 495, obs. I.
- LIBELLIS, dat. gov. by in in inseribunt. Diminutives express (1) diminution, (2) endearment, (3) contempt.
- IN EO IPSO, in that very instance, i.e., in writing their names in their books.
- § 27. BRUTUS. D. Junius Brutus Callaicus, consul with P. Corn. Scipio Nasica Serapio, B.C. 138, and conqueror of the warlike Lusitani and Callacci. He was also a man of letters. (C. Brutus C. 28). Accius was a favourite of his, because he traced his (Brutus') genealogy from a third son of the founder of the republic.
- ACH. More readable and adroit imitations of Greek tragedy were furnished by Pacuvius' (B.C. 219-129) younger contemporary, Lucius Accius (B.C. 170-103); son of a freedman of Pisaurum, with the exception of Pacuvius the only notable tragic poet of the seventh century. An active author also, in the field of literary history and grammar, he doubtless laboured to introduce, instead of the crude manner of his predecessors, greater purity of language and style into Latin tragedy; yet his inequality and incorrectness were emphatically censured by men of strict observance like Lucilius. Mon. III, 537.
- MARTIS. Brutus built a temple to Mars, in which he placed a colossal statue of Mars. Mars from root MAR or MAL, "to destroy by friction," vide Peile's Phil. p. 134; Max Müller II. 347-50; and L & S. Lex. μορτός.
- MANUBIAS. praeda, booty generally; cxuviae (exuo), anything stripped from the person of a foe; spolia, arms and weapons; spolia opima, spoil stripped in battle from the leader of the enemy by the commander-in-chief of a Roman army; manubiae, the portion of spoil which fell to the commanderin-chief, out of which he generally erected public buildings, hence the propriety of quorum above.

IMPERATORES ARMATI - - - TOGATI JUDICES, antithesis. ABHORRERE=abesse.

§ 28. JAM ME VOBIS, I will now reveal myself to you, jurors, and will confess to you concerning a certain love of my own for fame, too strong, perhaps, but nevertheless sincere.

- NOS IN CONSULATU. Antonius and Cicero who were consuls during the third Catiline conspiracy, B. C. 63. § 28. C. XI. URBIS ATQUE IMPERII, &C. Notice the force of the
- § 28. C. XI. URBIS ATQUE IMPERII, &C. Notice the force of the conjunctions, et simply connects, while atque (ac before consonants only, atque before consonants and vowels) is stronger and puts forward the second member as equally important, and in contrast, to the first; whereas que denotes a closer relation than either (et or atque) and marks the second member as an enlargement or continuation of the first. M. 433, S. 561-5.
- UNIVERSA REPUBLICA. Why not cuncta or tota republica? Cicero purposely uses the strongest adjective and thereby extols himsel; cuncta would imply almost the same as universa, but it would be less emphatic, while tota would apply more to the land divisions than to the different nations, which universa expresses.
- ATTIGIT HIC VERSIBUS INCHOAVIT. The defendant here touched upon and began; by atque he limits the force of attigit.

AD PERFICIENDUM (sc. eos i.e. versus.

- HANC (SC. MERCEDEM) LAUDIS. The substantive which governs the genitive may be omitted, if it precedes in a corresponding member of the sentence (especially if combined with another genitive), and would have to be repeated in the same case or another easy to be determined (e.g. by a preposition affixed). M. 280, obs. 2.
- QUOD - NOS - EXERCEAMUS, with which we are to employ ourselves, quod is acc. after exerceamus.

QUA QUIDEM DETRACTA, and when this has been withdrawn.

- § 29. CERTE - POSTERUM (SC. TEMPUS), assuredly if the mind had no presentiment of the future.
- PRAESENTIRET. "The conjunctive is used in speaking conditionally of a thing which is noticed as not actual fact, both in the leading proposition (the proposition limited by the condition) of that which does not hold good, but would hold hold good on a certain supposition, and in the subordinate (that in which the condition is contained) with si, nisi, no, etiamsi, of the supposition which is assumed in the statement, but declared not actually to hold good. That which would take place now or at a future time, or (contrary to the actual fact) is supposed as taking place, is expressed by the imperfect; what would have taken place at a previous time, or of which it is assumed that it has taken place, by the pluperfect. M. 347, S. 424, 2; 427, H. 503, 504.

ANGERETUR - - - DIMICARET cf. praesentiret. STIMULIS, goads. TEMPORE \Rightarrow fine.

DIMITTENDAM COMMEMORATIONEM acc+inf after admonet

ADAEQUANDUM (SC. NOMEN). Correct reading is adaequandum. cf. "Non omnis moriar, multaque pars mei vitabit libitinam." HOR, Car. III. 30. 6.

- § 30. C. XII. AN VERO, a double question with an inference. Are we - - - of a small mind? Well then, do we think that all things are doomed to perish when we die? This form is made use of, when, in order to prove something, we seek to draw attention to the agreement or difference, compatibility or incompatibility, of two propositions, and the combined propositions are either expressed interrogatively (rarely in the negative), or attached to a leading proposition which points to the combination of the two as perverse or absurd. M. 438, 453. S. 414.
- PARVI ANIMI, genitive of characteristic.
- AN, QUUM STATUAS ET IMAGINES, an here asks a supplementary question in case any objection should be made to the last sentence; for statuas of VI 14.
- QUUM - RELINQUERINT, subjunctive of reason.
- EFFIGIEM, ought we not much rather desire to leave behind us a delineation - - - set forth and finished off by the greatest intellects; concrete objects (statuas et imagines) are compared with abstract ideas (consiliorum ac virtutum).
- ARBITRABAR, was of opinion.
- IN SEMPITERNAM MEMORIAM, for the everlasting memorial.

HAEC (SC. MEMORIA).

SAPIENTISSIMI HOMINES, Socrates, Zeno, Plato, and all who believed in the immortality of the soul. Cicere's idea of Nature was a semblance of that of the Greeks. For proof, that the mythology of the Greeks, and the ancient world generally, was a thing totally distinct from their religion, consult Max Müller, vol. II, 455-505.

AD ALIQUAM MEI [SC. SPIRITUS].

- NUNC QUIDEM, &C., now indeed I am delighted with a certain reflection and expectation. cf, Cic. N. D. I. 42, 118.
- § 31. PUDORE EO, abl. of characteristic, a man of such honourable character as you see approved of, not only by the high standing, but also by the long intimacy of his friends. Pudor, like ατιδω5, lit. means, a sense of shame, self-respect.

inte tero do s, etc. incans, a sense of sname,

CONVENIT, it is meet. impersonal.

CAUSA VERO EJUSMODI, causa, descriptive Abl. modifying hominem.

QUAE BENEFICIO LEGIS, Cicero now sums up the evidence.

QUAE = TALIS UT. The conjunctive is employed in relative propositions, which complete the idea of a certain quality and express the way in which it operates, so that qui conveys the signification of (ulis) ut (some one who l.q. Such a one that). M. 364. "Quis potest esset am aversus a vero, qui neget, haec omnia, quae videmus, deorum immortalium potestate administrari. (Cic. Cat. III. 9): S. 479.

QUAE QUUM ITA SINT. Subj. of reason and since such is the case. A common Ciceronian mode of summation.

UT EUM - - - ACCIPIATIS. Subj. of purpose; notice the emphatic position of eum.

RECENTIBUS. i.e., Catilinarian conspiracy.

(EX) EO NUMERO, of that number.

HABITI ATQUE DICTI, another reading is itaque=et ita.

SIC IN VESTRAM - - - ut, under your protection in such a way that.

§ 32. OMNIBUS, dat. after probata esse.

QUAE NON FORI. This passage is corrupt. Quae firme a me judi calique; qua non firme a me judicalique; quae autem remota me judicalique; are other readings. A negative is required, and the reading of the text is as appropriate as any other.

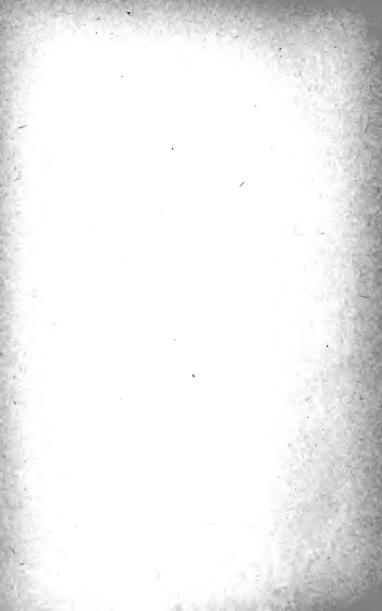

FORI, genitive after sum. S. 266. Up to this time there was only one forum at Rome, situated between the Palatine and Capitoline hills, oblong in shape, and of seven jugera (a jugerum = $\frac{6}{3}$ of an acre) in extent.

IN BONAM PARTEM, in good part.

ACCEPTA ESSE, acc + inf. after spero.

AB EO, Quintus Cicero.

CERTO SCIO. Certo is stronger than certe, and is only found in the comic poets, Statius and Cicero, while certe belongs to all periods and kinds of composition; nosco, of persons, scio of things, Noram et Scio. Ter. And. V. 4. 31. I knew him and I know [the circumstances].
